Review of Books on the Book of Mormon, volume 3
Daniel C. Peterson, editor
The 1991 issue of the Review examines 17 new books on the Book of Mormon published in 1990. “The Review is designed to guide readers to the best works being published on the Book of Mormon. We also try to warn readers against shoddy work and fallacious arguments where they occur.” Several of the reviews are important essays in Book of Mormon scholarship.

As in the previous two years, this issue of the Review contains a complete bibliography of books published on the Book of Mormon during the past year. Also included is the illustrated text of Allen J. Christenson’s 1991 F.A.R.M.S. Book of Mormon Lecture, “Maya Harvest Festivals and the Book of Mormon.”

The Geography of Book of Mormon Events: A Source Book
John L. Sorenson
Anyone dealing with the geography of the Book of Mormon cannot do without this work. This preliminary, loose-leaf edition first summarizes and evaluates all previous geographic models. Next Sorenson gives a sentence-by-sentence analysis of all the geographically significant information in the Book of Mormon. Finally, he offers his own purely internal map of Book of Mormon lands based exclusively on statements in the scriptures. His goal is to generate discussion that may create consensus. Preliminary edition, loose-leaf.

Brother Nibley brings his formidable training in classical rhetoric and history to bear in this study of anti-Mormon writings. Hugh Nibley Book of Mormon Classes on Video (1989-1990)
Four semesters of Nibley in action, presenting a BYU class on the book that he loves and knows so well. It is vintage Nibley, with his insights, humor, and passionate convictions.

Nibley gives particular attention to the cultures from which the Book of Mormon peoples came, providing insights into their lives and thoughts. In turn those insights help us understand better what those people experienced and what those experiences can teach us.

Each set contains 28 lectures (one semester) on 14 tapes. Transcripts are also available.

Richard L. Anderson, BYU
What Is F.A.R.M.S.?

The Foundation for Ancient Research and Mormon Studies is a research and service organization, established in 1979. It is a non-profit, tax-exempt educational corporation dedicated to the study of ancient scripture.

F.A.R.M.S. encourages and supports research on the Book of Mormon, including its history, culture, language, geography, politics, and law. The Foundation also works to make the results of this research available widely and economically, as a service to teachers and students of the scriptures.

F.A.R.M.S. distributes information about the Book of Mormon in:
- INSIGHTS, a newsletter published 6 times per year
- Books
- The annual Review of Books on the Book of Mormon
- The annual Journal of Book of Mormon Studies (new in 1992)
- New research papers
- Reprints of published scholarly papers
- Videos and audiotapes

F.A.R.M.S. also supports the preparation of the Collected Works of Hugh Nibley and a series of original monographs.

The Foundation also provides services to scholars. Working groups, editorial assistance, reference resources, research grants, planning, and networking help scholars explore and develop answers to all kinds of questions. Research Press, a publishing arm of F.A.R.M.S., publishes books of serious scholarship on the Book of Mormon and related topics of interest to a broad public audience or to scholars.

Beyond any question, F.A.R.M.S. has become one of the major centers of intellectual activity for contemporary Latter-day Saints. No organization produces more serious scholarship on the scriptures and related topics. F.A.R.M.S. has taken a leading role in making this scholarship available to a wide audience.” Richard L. Bushman, Columbia University

The Foundation is independent of all other organizations and does not speak for any other organization. F.A.R.M.S. is supported by private donations by many individuals. It has the use of offices in the Amanda Knight Hall kindly provided by Brigham Young University.

F.A.R.M.S. pays an office staff and some editors. All other officers, directors, most researchers, and many other volunteers serve without any compensation whatsoever from F.A.R.M.S.

Your donations are essential, tax-deductible, and very much appreciated.

Forthcoming Books

Reexploring the Book of Mormon
John W. Welch, editor
Since 1984, F.A.R.M.S. has issued a steady stream of updates on current Book of Mormon research. These summaries are clear, informative, brief, and to the point.

Now the F.A.R.M.S. updates have been updated and compiled into a single fascinating volume. John Welch has edited the updates to make them useful to both scholars and general readers. He has prepared introductions that place each update in context—the questions and problems that stimulated the original research and the direction that subsequent research has taken. And many new illustrations have been provided that help clarify the research findings.

The collection has been organized by books and chapters in the Book of Mormon to make it a useful supplement to your reading of the Book of Mormon in 1992. Coming in April 1992.
