Reexploring the Book of Mormon
John W. Welch, editor

N-2 309 pp. $15.95

3: The World and the Prophets
Points out consistencies of doctrines, practices, and institutions between the Latter-day Saints and the early Christians; also documents the process whereby early Christianity changed into an institution teaching the learning of men. N-3 333 pp. $15.95

10: The Ancient State
The theme of this long-anticipated work—at root deeply religious in nature—is the power and pretensions of the ancient state. These essays, some published for the first time, contain many now-familiar aspects of Nibley’s trenchant social commentary. The foibles of our age are nothing new, repeating what has been done in other eras, which makes these essays highly pertinent to our own time.

11: Tinkling Cymbals and Sounding Brass: The Art of Telling Tales about Joseph Smith and Brigham Young
Brother Nibley brings his formidable training in classical rhetoric and history to bear in this study of anti-Mormon writings. The F.A.R.M.S. Logo

The logo of the Foundation for Ancient Research and Mormon Studies is composed of characters from four of the main ancient languages and cultures relevant to Book of Mormon research. The Hebrew "aleph" in the upper left corner and the Greek "omega" in the lower right are the first and last letters of the Hebrew and Greek alphabets, standing for the "first and the last" (Isaiah 48:12), who is Jesus Christ.

The Mayan glyph in the upper right is stylized, representing Mesoamerican studies. The Egyptian "Wd3t-eye" in the lower left, the eye of the sun god Re, was an ancient symbol of resurrection, since a myth told how the eye was torn into pieces and put back together. It also has a connection with the Book of Mormon, since the "pieces" of this eye were used by the Egyptians as binary fractional mathematical symbols for their grain measures, reminiscent of the weights and measures of the Nephites in Alma 11. The round pupil of the eye was also used by the Egyptians as the round outline of the hypocophali used in burials, of which Facsimile 2 in the Book of Abraham is an example.

"Beyond any question, F.A.R.M.S. has become one of the major centers of intellectual activity for contemporary Latter-day Saints. No organization produces more serious scholarship on the scriptures and related topics. F.A.R.M.S. has taken a leading role in making this scholarship available to a wide audience."

Richard L. Bushman, Columbia University
What Is F.A.R.M.S.?

The Foundation for Ancient Research and Mormon Studies is a research and service organization, established in 1979. It is a non-profit, tax-exempt, educational corporation dedicated to the study of ancient scripture.

F.A.R.M.S. encourages and supports research on the Book of Mormon, including its history, culture, language, geography, politics, and law. The Foundation also works to make the results of this research available widely and economically, as a service to teachers and students of the scriptures.

F.A.R.M.S. distributes information about the Book of Mormon in:
- INSIGHTS, a newsletter published 6 times per year
- Books
- The annual Review of Books on the Book of Mormon
- The semiannual Journal of Book of Mormon Studies
- New research papers
- Reprints of published scholarly papers
- Videos and audiotapes

F.A.R.M.S. also supports the preparation of the Collected Works of Hugh Nibley and a series of original monographs.

The Foundation also provides services to scholars. Working groups, editorial assistance, reference resources, research grants, planning, and networking help scholars explore and develop answers to all kinds of questions. Research Press, a publishing arm of F.A.R.M.S., publishes books of serious scholarship on the Book of Mormon and related topics of interest to a broad public audience or to scholars.

The Foundation is independent of all other organizations and does not speak for any other organization. F.A.R.M.S. is supported by private donations by many individuals. It has the use of offices in the Amanda Knight Hall kindly provided by Brigham Young University.

F.A.R.M.S. pays an office staff and some editors. All other officers, directors, most researchers, and many other volunteers serve without any compensation whatsoever from F.A.R.M.S.

Your donations are essential, tax-deductible, and very much appreciated.
